

ROCKFORD YOUTH AGAIN SAVED FROM EXECUTION

AL SMITH FOR AL SMITH FOR DEM. NOMINEE

Discusses Prohibition and Himself On Arrival
In Chicago

BULLETIN.
St. Paul, June 22—(AP)—A surprise victory scored by Democratic "rumpers" in Monday's state primaries was shaped into a weapon today in an effort to prevent seating of Minnesota's Roosevelt-instructed delegation to the national convention next week.

"Rumpers" who bolted the state convention when the delegation was chosen, said they will use the victory to bolster up charges that unfair methods were employed at the convention. The "rumpers" organized their own convention, selected an unopposed delegation mostly favorable to Alfred E. Smith, and entered candidates in the primary in a successful effort to wrest control of the state party machinery from the "regulars" or Roosevelt group.

John E. Regan, who won the party's nomination for Governor, asserted that the triumph of the "rumpers" slate amounted to "repudiation" of the Roosevelt convention endorsement. He said the repudiation reflected growing sentiment throughout the nation.

Chicago, June 22—(AP)—A call for repeal of the 18th Amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead Act came from Alfred E. Smith today shortly after the colorful campaigner of 1928 had arrived to dispute the nomination of his former political rival, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

His first statement on the convention scene, however, was restricted entirely to prohibition. He gave no hint of the intensity of the party dispute that is stirring leaders, had no mention of Roosevelt or of the coming contest over permanent chairmanship of the convention which will bring the first test of the strength of the Roosevelt forces.

Smith called the 18th Amendment "unworkable" and demanded its repeal. He said the Volstead Act should be changed to permit the sale of beverages of a reasonable alcoholic content, thus diverting "the profits of the bootleggers into legitimate taxes."

Smith Is His Choice
Asked about his first choice for the Democratic nomination, Smith smiled and responded: "Alfred E. Smith."

Smith said he favored J. P. Shouse for permanent chairman and would take the floor if necessary in the fight to nominate him. He added, however, that he believed Shouse would be elected without a contest on the floor.

Close behind Smith, Senator Hull of Tennessee, prominently mentioned as chairman of the Resolutions committee, arrived with the statement that he found the consensus of wets and dries in the party to be for a plan submitting to the people the question of repeal or retention of the Eighteenth Amendment.

His At "Ballyhoo"
Questioned as to his running mate, Smith replied:

"I haven't thought that out yet." He reiterated that talk of Roosevelt being nominated on the first ballot was "a little ballyhoo."

Asked about his part in the "stop Roosevelt" campaign, Smith said: "There is nothing to that. I'm combating a stop Smith movement that started over a year ago."

Why do you oppose Roosevelt? the former Governor was asked.

"I want myself nominated," he answered.

Smith said he did not believe the convention would abrogate the two-thirds rule. Asked if he would support the nominee of the convention, he said it was "not necessary to talk about it at this time."

Hague To Lead March
Will you urge an economic plank?

"I can't tell until I see the product of the committee."

Smith said Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City would be his floor manager, adding with a grin: "He leads the grand march."

Asked what the Democrats should do to assure success in November, Smith replied:

"Write an honest, straightforward and clear platform, and nominate me."

"How many ballots will that take?"

"That depends on how fast the delegates can see."

"What about Garner's statement (opposing prohibition)?"

"The more the merrier," Smith said, concluding the interview.

Incidentally, the scrap over the permanent chairmanship is scheduled as the convention's first head-on collision between the opposing groups. It may decide whether Governor Roosevelt will be the nominee or the only man who almost got the nomination.

Charge Double-Cross
Shouse supporters charge double-crossing in the decision of the Roosevelt men to support Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana for the post. There are counter charges and James A. Farley, Roosevelt generalissimo, claims the deciding factor—the necessary votes.

Regardless, Shouse's friends (Continued on Page 2)

Hoover Proposes Big Armament Reduction

Human Snapper Broke Loose In Justice's Court

Antioch, Ill., June 22—(AP)—County authorities say that Jack Wilcox is something of a human snapper turtle.

They reported that he bit eight jurors in Justice Court yesterday because they convicted him of biting the Antioch Town Marshal, John Brogan, after the officer arrested him recently on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Wilcox had the assistance of his 90-year-old but nimble father, who seized the Judge's gavel and the blackjack of the Deputy Marshal, James Horan, as Horan was leading Jack from the court room after the trial. A blow with the mallet and another with the blackjack made Horan stop clutching his prisoner, who then dove into the jury box to start biting. The services of two surgeons were required when he had finished.

The prisoner was finally subdued and taken to jail at Waukegan, Ill.

YANKEE TENNIS PLAYERS TAKE WIMB'EDON PLAY

All Americans Move
On To Third Round
Of Tournament

Wimbledon, England, June 22—(AP)—John Van Ryn, Frank A. Shields and Wilmer Allison, members of the United States Davis Cup team, today followed Ellis Vines, Gregory Mangin and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., into the third round of the Wimbledon tennis championships with clean cut victories over their opponents.

The three American stars, who remained in the United States to win the interzone final from Brazil and arrived in London only Monday, had an easy time in catching up with the field.

Van Ryn defeated J. D. Wheatley, little known English player, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5. Allison won from T. Tloszynski of Poland, 8-6, 6-3; 6-2; and Shields disposed of Taylor, young England player, 6-3, 6-4 and 6-1.

Helen Jacobs, America's second ranking woman player, advanced to the third round of women's singles with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Mrs. Phyllis Covell of England. Sarah Palfrey, another member of the American Wightman Cup team which defeated England, won from Mrs. E. H. Dearman of England, in a hard fought match 6-7, 6-4, 6-1.

Mrs. Helen Williams Moody defeated Miss W. M. Bower of England, 6-1, 6-0, to advance to the third round of women's singles with Miss Jacobs.

ROCKFORD DROWNED.

Sudbury, Ont., June 22—(AP)—Herbert Carlson of 413 S. Second St., Rockford, Ill., was drowned in Birch Lake today when his canoe upset. The body was not recovered. He had arrived on a fishing trip yesterday with Lee Lemarre of Rockford. Lemarre was ashore.

GOV. ROOSEVELT ASKS WALKER TO ANSWER CHARGES

New York Mayor Will Wait Until After
Dem. Convention

Albany, N. Y., June 22—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt, leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, today asked Mayor Walker of New York City to answer charges that he is unfit and should be removed from office.

Six days before the Chicago convention opens to pass upon Roosevelt's qualifications to head his party, he laid the accusations of Samuel Seabury and groups of civic organizations before the Tammany administration of the world's second largest city.

Roosevelt did not fix a time within which the Mayor should file his reply. It is probable, however, with similar proceedings as a basis of judgment, that Walker's reply will not reach the executive before the battle of ballots opens on Lake Michigan.

In eight short sentences, Roosevelt advised the Mayor that the next move was his. When he replied, the Governor likely will call a public hearing in Albany, at which Walker will face Seabury across the Governor's desk in the reception room of the executive suite.

Twelve Conclusions
In a letter accompanying the transcript of the testimony and his analysis, Seabury cited twelve conclusions which he said he thought the testimony justified with respect to Walker's conduct as Mayor.

The first one, which in a general way covered them all, stated that in Seabury's opinion Walker had failed properly to execute his duties, had acted in a way prejudicial to the best interests of the people, had been "actuated by improper and illegal considerations," had been guilty of "gross improprieties," and that his explanations of circumstances "seriously reflecting" on the manner in which he had conducted the affairs of the city had been "either so incomplete or so unworthy of credence as not to constitute acceptable explanations."

Specific Citations
Among the 12 conclusions he cited testimony that Walker had owned $1,000 worth of debenture bonds of the Reliance Bronze & Steel Corporation when the company was awarded in 1931 a contract for approximately $43,000 worth of traffic light standards on Fifth Avenue. At a public hearing Seabury said he believed this constituted grounds for Walker's removal under a provision of the city charter which forbids a public official from having any financial interest in a company doing business with the city.

He also cited $246,000 profit which Walker testified he derived from a joint brokerage account established by Paul Block without any investment by Walker, the financial dealings approaching $1,000,000 in which he has charged the missing Russell C. Sherwood, as agent for the Mayor, engaged, and Walker's association, as indicated by testimony, with officials of the Equitable Coach Co., Inc., while they were trying to get a bus franchise. He mentioned the $10,000 letter of credit, purchased by J. Allan Smith, New York representative of the company, for use by the Mayor's party on a trip to Europe.

Seabury also cited certain stock transactions which, he has charged, indicated that Walker accepted a gift from a brokerage house that was financially interested in a taxicab company which was trying to have put through a taxicab control bill that would be favorable to itself.

WILL NOT HURRY

New York, June 22—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker said today that he would not begin work on his formal answer to allegations by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee, until he returns from the Democratic national convention.

In requesting this answer Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt did not set any time limit.

Asked about a report from Chicago that he might be selected as the New York member of the convention's committee on Resolutions, the Mayor said he had not requested this post but would serve if chosen.

TOURNEY FOR CHARITY.

Springfield, Ill., June 22—(AP)—Governor Emmerson today called upon citizens of the state to support the George Washington Bicentennial Military Tournament at Soldiers' Field, beginning Friday and continuing until July 4. Proceeds from the eleven day tournament will be divided between the Joint Emergency Relief Fund of Cook county and the Army Relief Society.

CLAMMERS ASK PERMISSION TO WORK AT PARK

An Open Period During
Early Morning
Is Asked By Men

Clammers who have been digging from the beds in Rock river above the dam have appealed to the members of the city council to raise the ban on clamming in front of Lowell park. Zach Adams, representing about fifteen clammers who are operating east of the city, appeared before the city council last evening in a plea for the clam diggers.

He told the council that a rich bed of clams prevailed along the entire bank of Lowell park and suggested that the clammers be permitted to operate their dredges from 4 to 7 o'clock in the morning, promising to cease operations with the appearance of bathers at the Lowell park beach. Clammers, he told the council, had been ordered off many beds and as all were laboring hard to make a living, and asked the indulgence of both the council and the park board in granting an open period along the park shore each day.

The council favored changing the ordinance, which was only recently passed, to permit the clammers to operate, when it was shown that broken bottles, tin cans and other refuse in large quantities had been removed by the clammer's bars from along the beach and taken to the opposite side of the river. A meeting is to be held with the Park Board to arrange for an open period each day which will permit the clammers to operate along the shore of the park.

The regular semi-monthly bills amounting to $2,671.00 were allowed and the council hurriedly adjourned to listen to the radio broadcast of the Sharkey-Schmeling fiasco in New York City.

HERRIN TODAY THINKS OF ITS BLACKEST DAY

It Is the Anniversary Of Massacre Of 22
Non-Union Men

Herrin, Ill., June 22—(AP)—The flags in Herrin are furled today. The streets are silent and almost deserted. The townsman and his country neighbor go about their business placidly and comfortably; the conversation is all of the present. There is little jollity and no desire for memories for Herrin wishes the world would forget too, that parade which sent its name circling the world in screaming banners of black is a bitter memory. For today is the tenth anniversary of the "Herrin Massacre." The panic which started to parade and finished with the killing of 22 men, the steamshovel operators from Chicago who dared to dig coal from the beds of the Lester Mine strip southeast of town.

Ten years ago this afternoon, the streets of Herrin were literally jammed with thousands of visitors. The mines had closed April 1, 1922 and operators and miners were negotiating then, as now, for a new wage agreement. For nearly three months, the mines had not worked and men and women and children were very hungry.

Mines Tried To Work

The strip mine, operated by W. A. Lester, about three miles south and east of Herrin, was trying to work. The miners had walked out, but Lester imported a crew of steamshovel operators from Chicago, about 30 men. It was finally agreed that he could use them to uncover the veins of coal, but he was not to be permitted to use the shovel to load the coal into cars. But Lester tried to load coal with his steamshovels and the miners picked his mine.

Trouble followed immediately. Constant clashes between the miners and the mine guards followed. On the afternoon of June 21, 1922, a couple of Herrin lads were shot at by the mine guards and one killed. The next day, Herrin seethed with irate miners. Late that afternoon they formed into a straggling column and marched to the mine. After a parley, the besieged steam shovel operators agreed to surrender and return to Chicago.

Surrendered Killed

They surrendered. Their hands were tied, some behind their backs and others just together at the wrists. They started westward, back toward Herrin in the custody of their captors. In a little while alongside the stripped coal pits, where the railroad switch track crosses the road, the guards gave the prisoners a push and told them to "run."

Hemmed in on all sides, the prisoners started to run but the (Continued on Page 2)

Terse Items Of News Gathered In Dixon During Day

CATTLE ON FEED
Otto Jacobs, tenant on the G. K. Swartz farm in Harmon township, has just received 81 Hereford steers for fattening this fall and winter.

EVENING GOLF MATCH

Tuesday evening's 5 o'clock golf match at the Dixon Country club drew thirty members and guests into the contest. Prizes were given Harry Badger, Wilson Dysart, Floyd Chapman and B. T. Shaw at the dinner following the contest.

ANDY WILL JUMP

"Andy" Owens, Dixon's one-armed balloonist and parachute jumper, who has made appearances in all parts of the country, has been engaged to put on his thrilling act July 3 and 4, at Waverly Park, Beloit, Wis., in connection with a two-day celebration.

NEW BUILDINGS

C. A. Mellott is building a new home just east of the W. C. Durkes residence. E. V. Mellott is building a new home east of the Thomas Stokes residence. Attorney Harry Warner has had constructed a new barn on the E. O. Malley farm near Walton.

ON CHECK CHARGE

W. H. Austin was arrested at about 10 o'clock last night by State Investigator F. J. Rosebrook and taken to the county jail on a warrant issued out of the County Court Monday on information of his having allegedly issued a worthless check. A large truck driven by Austin at the time of his arrest is also being held by the investigator.

SPRINKLERS READY

The sprinklers purchased by the city last summer which met with popular reception by hundreds of youngsters in every part of the city are to be placed in service soon. The members of the fire department who handled the sprinklers last season will resume the program as soon as there is sufficient demand for the cooling showers by the children of Dixon.

LEGION PLANS PICNIC

The annual picnic of Dixon post No. 12, American Legion, will be held all day Sunday and all of the service men are invited to attend. The picnic this year will be held at the Mont Platt's woods just south of the city limits. A fine program of athletic events has been arranged. State highway, route 89 will be marked south of Dixon on Peoria avenue to the corner, one-half mile south where arrows will point west to the entrance of the picnic grounds.

SCORES OF TRAMPS

The police were called to the Illinois Central depot this morning at 11 o'clock when it was reported that no less than 30 transients had jumped from a north bound freight train in the yards. When the train pulled out of Dixon going north at least 50 were counted and about twice that number were in the "jungles" south of the city along the Illinois Central right of way and in the vicinity of the North Western passenger station.

LANDMARK GONE

Another old landmark has disappeared from the picture due to the advent of the automobile in Dixon. The iron watering trough which for years stood in the street just north of the postoffice has been removed. For several years the trough has been out of commission because of needed repairs and the city council and Dixon Water Company reached an agreement that the trough has been taken out of the street making room for the parking of two more automobiles. The water company is installing a drinking fountain near the corner.

READY FOR GAME

Members of the fire department, volunteer firemen and a dozen substitutes were going through fire drill practice, receiving instructions and rehearsing signals this afternoon at the fire department headquarters in preparation for the post ball game this evening. The firemen will cross bats with Risley's Terrors at the east end field at 6 o'clock. Many changes have been made and the firemen today refused to announce the battery or starting lineup until the game is called by Umpire City Attorney Martin J. Gannon at 6 o'clock.

CEMENT FROM OIL

He finds that the clay used to purify oil, when ground up with Portland cement at the time of manufacture, will improve its plasticity and waterproof qualities.

CUT OF NEARLY A THIRD URGED BY PRESIDENT

The Principles Are Made Public At White House Today

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
President Hoover made a dramatic appeal in Washington for reduction of the arms of the world by one-third, at an estimated saving of ten to fifteen billion dollars in the next decade. His proposals included abolition of tanks, chemical warfare, bombing planes and prohibition of bombardment from the air, and reductions in land armies, battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

Hugh Gibson, chief of the American delegation, read it before a crowded meeting of the disarmament conference in Geneva. The first reaction was guarded approval in general terms by Great Britain and an expression of frank hostility by France.

France, adhering to the thesis which she never has deserted, found the proposal not at all to her liking. Joseph Paul-Boncour, the French War Minister, said it

Extra! Sen. Borah

Agrees With Hoover—

Washington, June 22—(AP)—President Hoover's proposal to the Geneva disarmament conference for a one-third cut in world armament drew the immediate approval today of chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee who only two days ago announced he would not support the president for reelection on the party platform.

was absolutely unacceptable and that France would raise the old question of security to oppose it.

Sir John Simon, the British Foreign Secretary, described it as a valuable contribution to disarmament and said it would receive careful consideration.

Before the President published his plan it was approved fully by Secretaries Stimson, Hurley and Adams, by the Chief of Staff of the Army, the Chief of Naval operations and by the entire American delegation at Geneva.

Actually it is an amplification of the nine point program submitted by Hugh Gibson, chief of the Geneva delegation, last February. It goes further than that but it permits retention of a 35,000 ton submarine total, probably written in as a concession to France.

Washington, June 22—(AP)—President Hoover, in a sudden and dramatic announcement at the White House today, proposed principles for reducing the arms of the entire world by nearly one-third.

With Secretary Stimson at his side, the President read to a small group of newspapermen hurriedly assembled at the Executive Mansion a statement saying that "the time has come when we should cut through the brush" and adopt arms reductions calculated to save between the $10,000,000,000 and $15,000,000,000 during the next ten years.

Five broad principles were laid down by the Chief Executive and upon this foundation he proposed among other things:

Abolition of all tanks, chemical warfare and large mobile guns.

Reduction of one-third in the strength of all land armies over and above "the so-called police component."

The abolition of all bombing planes, and the "total prohibition of all bombardment from the air."

Reduction in the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers by one-fourth and of submarines by one-third with no tonnage having more than 35,000 tons of submersible.

Have Been Approved

Simultaneously with the President's pronouncement today it was learned in authoritative quarters that the proposals suggested already had been approved fully by Secretaries Stimson, Hurley and Adams, by the Chief of Staff of the Army and the Chief of Naval operations, and by the entire American delegation at Geneva.

Mr. Hoover's broad and drastic plan was placed before the Geneva conference today, almost simultaneously with the reading of it to a group of hardly a dozen newspaper correspondents assembled in his private office.

The principles enunciated by the Chief Executive for slicing the world's armaments by 33 per cent were read by him as follows:

"First: The Kellogg-Briand pact, to which we are all signatories, can (Continued on Page 2)

Child's Story May Convict Her Mother Of Murder

BULLETIN.
Rockford, Ill., June 22—(AP)—Dan Morris was held in Waterloo, Ia., today for questioning in the fatal shooting of John Engel, with whom his wife, Mrs. Lucille Morris, was living.

Mrs. Morris' 7-year-old daughter, Nellie May, was taken to the Engel home, with her mother, today and told police that her mother was in the bedroom with Engel when she heard the shot fired Sunday.

Rockford, Ill., June 22—(AP)—

Seven-year-old Nellie May Morris has innocently told the authorities a story of the fatal shooting of John F. Engel that, officials said, may result in filing of formal murder charges against her own mother, Mrs. Lucille Morris, 28.

Engel was found dead of a bullet wound in the Morris home last Sunday. In the presence of Mrs. Morris, the girl yesterday declared after hearing a noise in the parlor, she saw her mother come into the bedroom. She was admonished, she said, to tell any inquiries that "Mr. Engel shot himself."

Mrs. Morris, who has steadfastly maintained since her arrest after the shooting that Engel's death was a suicide, faintly at the statement. Coroner Walter Julian said the girl would be taken before the grand jury to repeat her story.

The authorities have announced Mrs. Morris' estranged husband, reported to have been seen in Rockford Saturday, was being sought for questioning.

EX-DRY AGENTS ARE FREED OF MURDER CHARGE

Texas Federal Judge
Ordered Verdict
Of Acquittal

Dallas, Texas, June 22—(AP)—Prohibition Agents L. C. Smith and N. D. Heaton were free today of legal responsibility for the slaying of F. M. McGlothlin, country storekeeper, April 8. United States District Judge William H. Atwell ordered an instructed verdict based on self-defense in their favor late yesterday.

On motion of the prosecution all other charges against the agents were dismissed, as well as those against Buddy Hoard, an informer. McGlothlin was killed and his wife wounded when the agents arranged a rendezvous with a suspected bootlegger at his store. The McGlothlins thought the agents were robbers.

NOT REINSTATED

Washington, June 22—(AP)—L. C. Smith and N. D. Heaton, suspended prohibition agents freed in Texas yesterday on charges of killing a storekeeper, will not be reinstated.

Prohibition Director Woodcock said today the agents had not asked for reinstatement and that he believed they were undesirable as members of his enforcement staff.

Woodcock, who suspended the men when they were arrested, said he did not believe they guilty of murder but felt they did not measure up to the standards required in the prohibition service.

Representative's Wife Is Fined $50

Washington, June 22—(AP)—Mrs. Bertha Huddleston, wife of Representative Huddleston of Alabama, was fined $50 in police court today after pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving.

Mrs. Huddleston was arrested, along with a male companion the night of June 8 after the machine she was driving collided with two other cars. She was booked at that time on a charge of driving while drunk.

The charge was changed by Stanley Denesle, Assistant Corporation Counsel, when Mrs. Huddleston appeared in court. Mrs. Huddleston's companion, who was arrested for intoxication, did not appear and forfeited $10 bail.

Judge's Power To Parole Questioned

Springfield, Ill., June 22—(AP)—Authority of Superior Judge Charles A. Williams of Cook county to admit Carl Parker and Stanley Wilson to probation after sentencing them to prison for robbery with a gun, was questioned in the Supreme Court today in the filing of mandamus proceedings by State Attorney John A. Swanson to compel the Judge to expunge the probationary orders.

Contention of the State's Attorney was that after defendants are sentenced the trial court's authority over them ceases, and probation for them rests

Misses Ruth and Frances Daugherty, Lucille Rachow, Mildred Richardson and Glenn Baker, Clifford Rachow, and Earl Peterson of Chicago visited at the Frank Fisher home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Miller of Chicago are spending a month in Dixon on business.
—Ice Cream Social Wednesday evening, June 22, on lawn at St. Ann's Church, 14512.

Mrs. Joseph P. Conley, daughter Maryjo and sons Paul and Arthur of Seattle, Wash. are here for a few days visit at the home of Miss Agnes Conley, 420 Third street.

Attorney John Armstrong, who recently purchased the W. J. Hintz property on Peoria ave., has had the house repaired and repainted.
Mrs. H. U. Bardwell and Miss Clara Gwen Bardwell motored to Rockford this afternoon.

Mrs. Dorman and Mrs. Youngs of Freeport visited at the home of Mrs. W. J. Niebergall, Tuesday.
Robert Harvey and Ralph Cohn returned from Chicago Saturday. It was stated in the Telegraph that Maurice Schwartz returned from Chicago Saturday with Mr. Harvey but Mr. Schwartz had not been in the city, but was attending to business as manager of the Kline department store.

Mrs. W. E. Crews and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. John Meurer and Frank Fisher of this city; Mrs. Arthur Clayton, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Heaton, and sons, Mrs. Roy Helrich of South Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fisher of the Bend; and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fisher of Franklin Grove, attended the funeral of Mrs. Jonathan Rutt in Sterling Friday.

Mrs. Louise Rachow of Argo, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Frank Fisher, who has been quite ill, but is somewhat improved.

Harry D. Freed who suffered a stroke of paralysis at his home last week is reported to be showing much improvement his many friends will be glad to hear.

Mrs. T. L. Zimmerman is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McIntyre while her husband is taking a six weeks course of study at the University of Chicago.
Attorney and Mrs. H. C. Warner, Lester Street, Dr. Raymond Worley and Chester Barriar will attend the annual national Elks convention to be held at Birmingham, Ala., next month. Lester Street is the delegate from the local lodge, he being the immediate Past Exalted Ruler and Attorney Warner is a member of one of the grand lodge committees.

The Vogue Shop has been newly redecorated and painted.

Mrs. Glenn Newman of Rockford was here today.
Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Cleaver of Eureka, Illinois, were here this afternoon to attend the funeral of E. E. Gibson. Reverend Cleaver is a former pastor of the Dixon Christian church, and Mr. Gibson was a parishioner at the time.

were predicting today if the ballot were only a few hours away, he would be given the gavel.
A man who may hold the answer of chairmanship and the nominee puzzles also has turned convention-ward. He is John F. Curry, Tammany chieftain. Farley has indicated he hoped for the formidable group of votes Curry controls, but there is no positive assurance of that as yet.

As usual, the approach of convention time is apparently convincing some candidates for the nomination that they are not only the logical but the likely men for the post.

Speaker John N. Garner's call in Washington for repeal was accompanied by assurance he would accept if the Democrats called for his leadership.

He went further in his statement and outlined his position on several issues, frowning on suggestions of debt cancellations and urging sweeping measures for relief.

At this early stage the drift is strongly toward a party declaration on prohibition which would go farther along the anti-prohibition road than the Republican plank.

The voice of the dry has been drowned, temporarily at least, by many calls for a direct Democratic expression on the issue, every statement hitherto being moist and some strongly wet.

The only question seems to be whether the plank should call for a resubmission of a repeal plank or a party commitment for repeal with odds at present favoring the former.

CUT OF NEARLY A THIRD URGED
BY PRESIDENT

only mean that the nations of the world have agreed that they will use their arms solely for defense.
"Second: This reduction should be carried out not only by broad general cuts in armaments but by increasing the comparative power of defense through decreases in the power of the attack.

Can't Be Disassociated
"Third: The armaments of the world have grown up in general mutual relation to each other. And, speaking generally, such reduction should be preserved in making reductions.

"Fourth: The reductions must be real and positive. They must first effect economic relief.

"Fifth: There are three problems to deal with—land forces, air forces, and naval forces. They are all inter-connected. No other part of the proposals which I make can be disassociated one from the other.

The President paused significantly after enunciating this part of his statement, and then added:

"Based on these principles, I propose that the arms of the world should be reduced by nearly one-third."

It was learned from highly authoritative sources in the Capital today that Mr. Hoover has no idea that the United States should act alone upon the principles he proposed, but would do so only if the other major powers should accept them.

Less Effect On U. S.
As analyzed here today, the President's proposals would have less effect upon the American Army and Navy than those of European powers. Figures are available here to show that the American Army has been demobilized below the police complement given Germany and the other states following the war, which Mr. Hoover would use as a yardstick for measuring the size of all armies.

America's bombing planes, tanks and chemical warfare, of course, would fall under the proposed ban.

Other figures available here show that the American Navy has not been built up to treaty strength, and that the effect of the proposals upon this country would be to bring the treaty limits down to about the ratio now enjoyed by the American Navy.

Mr. Hoover feels that since some time would be required for the adoption of his proposals, there would be no immediate reduction of personnel and thus no addition to the unemployment problem.

Several of the Chief Executive's aides and cabinet officers have compiled figures to show that the United States could save approximately $2,000,000,000 in expenditures over the next ten years.

Mr. Hoover feels personally that the United States, under the proposed slashes in arms, would be more secure in defense than it is today, since the power of attack of all nations would be reduced.

It was enunciated with great emphasis in the Capital today that although President Hoover's proposals for armament reduction have been discussed at Geneva for some time, they have not been mentioned in connection with war debt reductions.

It was stated on the highest authority that no such suggestions have been made by the United States in order to secure arms slashes. Mr. Hoover is known to feel personally that such a proposal—war debt reduction contingent upon armament reduction—would be offensive to the dignity of European nations.

Far-Reaching Proposal
President Hoover's suggestion today goes further than the original American nine-point program submitted at Geneva on February 9 by Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, acting head of the American delegation.

The Hoover plan embraces additional cuts in naval armaments in the battleship and cruiser classes and is a radical modification of the program submitted by Gibson. The latter advocated the abolition of submarines, while the Hoover proposal permits the retention of a small submarine tonnage, probably a concession to France.

Gibson particularly stressed the necessity for the reduction of offensive arms, that is great mobile guns and tanks which are suitable for attack upon a foreign power rather than defense. This form of armament has been particularly discussed by the American delegates at Geneva as the cause of the fear of attack from outside which has prevented European nations from agreeing to any reduction.

FOREIGNERS OPPOSED
Geneva, June 22—(AP)—President Hoover's proposal for drastic cuts in the world's armaments brought definite refusal of acceptance from the French today and only lukewarm approval from the British.

After the plan for reducing arms by approximately one-third had been presented at a special meeting of the world disarmament conference, the French delegate asserted that it was absolutely unacceptable and would lead to them too much like an ultimatum.

Sir John Simon, speaking for the British, said the plan would receive careful consideration but that agreement was not to be achieved by any one-sided statement.

Mr. Hoover's proposal for further reduction of naval arms is inadequate in some respects, he said, particularly those which concern submarines.

"I say boldly for the delegation of the United Kingdom," he said, "that we want more disarmament than appears here. We want submarines abolished."

FRANCE FRIGHTENED
Lausanne, Switzerland, June 22—(AP)—President Hoover's proposal for drastic cuts in the world's armaments is absolutely unacceptable to France, Joseph Paul-Boncour, the French Minister for War, said today.

He had hurried up from Geneva with an advance copy of the President's proposals as embodied in a speech to be delivered before the disarmament conference there by Hugh Gibson, chief of the American delegation.

He showed it to Premier Herriot and the two talked together for an hour. When their conference was over, M. Paul-Boncour said:

"This is absolutely unacceptable. France again will raise the question of security."

only way open was toward the fence, an eight foot high barbed wire fence surrounding a former deer park. A few of them clambered over and through the wire before the fusillade from the mob took effect.

They meandered around ponds of water, doubled back and finally six of them were caught in the cemetery two miles away. These six were caught within 50 yards of the place where five of them died and the sixth was left for dead, their throats cut with an old rusty pocket knife. Scattered back along their two mile course were the bodies of 17 other men who had been shot and beaten to death as they fled. The one who lived was the sixth man in the cemetery. When darkness came he crawled down the road until he finally obtained assistance out of the county.

The bodies of the others, 22 in all, were gathered up and finally an undertaker in Herrin was prevailed to care for them. Sixteen of them were buried in a common grave in the cemetery where five died. Many of them were unidentified.

More than 200 men were indicted for the crime but not a single man was ever positively identified as being a member of the mob and no convictions were ever obtained.

The grave is marked now with only a simple wooden cross erected by the American Legion and by little placards on steel rods, such as are found in potter's fields, telling the date of death and giving the name, if known. Weeds grow at will on the grave.

Herrin is sorry. The thing could never happen again here, citizens say, because years of privation has worn down that feeling which prevailed a decade ago.

And today, no mine operator would ever try to run his mine with imported diggers.

Aux. to Commandery Elected Officers

The Auxiliary to the Knights Templar held a picnic supper last evening at Masonic Temple, attended by families of the members and Commandery, numbering about fifty in all.

Afterward at 7:30 a regular meeting was held. Before rising from the supper table the retiring Commander O. L. Rogers and wife, presented to Mrs. Lloyd Lewis,
the retiring president of the Auxiliary,
a gift expressing their appreciation of her work for the past year. The gift was a lovely clock, the replica of a rare antique, presented with the best wishes of Mr. and Mrs.
Rogers.

At the regular meeting an elec-

Creamed Mushrooms on Toast

(Serving 6)
6 pieces hot buttered toast
6 tablespoons butter
2 cups fresh mushrooms
6 tablespoons flour
2-1/2 cups milk
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
1 tablespoon chopped parsley Scrub mushrooms and cut into halves. Heat the butter in frying pan and add mushrooms. Brown well and cover with lid. Cook 5 minutes. Add flour and blend. Add rest of ingredients excepting toast and cook 3 minutes. Stir constantly. Serve on toast.

If canned mushrooms are used,
drain them and cook in melted butter until brown. Then add ses-sonings and milk.

Canned mushrooms require less cooking than fresh ones.

For variety, 2 tablespoons of green pepper, pimientos or celery can be added to the sauce mixture just before it is served.

Cherry Roll

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2-3 cup milk
4 tablespoons fat
Mix dry ingredients. Cut in fat and add milk. When soft dough forms pat in out until 1-2 inch thick. Spread with cherry mixture.
Roll up and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Serve warm.

Cherry Mixture

2-1/2 cups seeded cherries
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons lemon juice Blend cherries, sugar, flour and cinnamon. Spread on soft dough and sprinkle with lemon juice.

S. S. Classes Picnic Thursday at Lowell

The Sunday School classes of the M. E. church taught by Mrs.

dinner at Lowell Park on Thursday, June 16th. A large number of class members, and a few friends, numbering about thirty in all, were present to enjoy the bountiful dinner, and sports which consisted of rowing and swimming.

The day was greatly enjoyed by all.

Biesecker-Degner Wedding Solemnized Saturday Evening

On Saturday evening June 18th, at 7:30, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. Allen Biesecker, when their daughter, Miss Mary Grace, was united in marriage to Carl G.
Degner, in the presence of the immediate families.

The Biesecker home was beautifully decorated with pink and white roses and ferns. Mrs. Leslie Biesecker sang most expressively
"I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Faith Dishong.
As the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus sounded forth, played by Mrs. Andrew Aschenbrenner, sister of the bridegroom, the bride party assumed their places before a bower of roses and ferns. Rev. Cecil Frazier, formerly of the Lee Center Congregational church, performed the impressive double ring ceremony.

Miss Marion Landau attended the bride as maid of honor. Rinehart Schnell was the best man.
Gienna Lee Biesecker and Andrew William Aschenbrenner preceded the party as flower bearers.

The bride was lovely in a gown of rose triple sheer georgette and carried an arm bouquet of roses.

Following the congratulations and best wishes a two course wedding luncheon was served by Mesdames Lippincott and Patterson and Misses Faith Dishong and Mary Schnell. The bride's table was attractively decorated in pink and blue, the centerpiece being a large three tier wedding cake.

Mrs. Degner is a young woman of pleasing personality and is very popular in the church and social circles of this community. Mr.
Degner, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Degner of Bradford, is a young man of excellent character, and has many friends in this community. He is employed by the Lee County Service Co. at Franklin Grove, at which place the young couple will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Degner left on a short wedding trip to the Dells of Wisconsin. The brides' going away dress was of blue crepe with white accessories.

Guests from a distance were:
Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Biesecker and little daughter of Chicago; Mr.
and Mrs. Howard Biesecker of Rockford, Rev. Cecil Frazier, wife and daughter Doris, of Plainfield.
Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Aschenbrenner and little son of Moline.

Sixteenth Birthday Luncheon Monday

Donald Holderman of Logan avenue was surprised Monday evening, the event honoring his sixteenth birthday. Donald was genuinely surprised.

Donald received many pretty gifts with the best wishes of his friends. Everyone present had a most enjoyable evening.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY TO MEET FRIDAY

As this is the last meeting before tendance is desired.

Bicentennial Art Exhibition

Thousands of visitors, many of them of worldwide prominence, have discovered the combined historical and art interest of the great collection of famous paintings of George Washington now on exhibition at the Corcoran Gallery of Art in the National Capital. This assemblage of the best-known likenesses was collected by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission as part of the government's own tribute to its First President during this year marking the Two Hundredth Anniversary of his birth.

Mrs. Hoover, the British Ambassador, General Pershing, the Italian Ambassador and many other dignitaries have already visited this exhibit.

The collection, nominally worth millions of dollars, is really priceless in value, both from the historical and the art angles. All but a few of the portraits made of Washington from life by the leading painters of his time are represented.

Foremost among them is the celebrated "Landsdowne Portrait" painted by Gilbert Stuart and now owned by the Earl of Rosebery of London, who kindly loaned the treasure to the United States
George Washington Bicentennial Commission for this special exhibit.

The Rosebery portrait is one of the famous paintings of the world.
Executed from life in 1796, it was presented by Mrs. William Bingham of Philadelphia as a gift to the Marquis of Lansdowne. After several changes of ownership, it came into the possession of John Delaware Lewis, Member of the British House of Commons, and was exhibited at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1876.
Now its present owner, Lord Rosebery, has enabled Americans to see it a second time in their country.

Flanking the Rosebery portrait are a number of other Washington portraits painted by Gilbert
Stuart, together with paintings by Charles Willson Peale, Edward A.
Savage, John Trumbull and other famous artists. The portraits by Charles Willson Peale, also done from life, and representing Washington in his younger years as a Colonel of the Virginia Militia, are of great historical importance.
The entire collection affords the clearest possible reflection of Washington's actual physical appearance as seen by the most trustworthy eyes in its various phases, from early life to his last years.

Besides the fifty-three portraits of Washington, the collection includes paintings of Martha Washington, her children and grandchildren, and likenesses of all the notables of the time directly associated with the First of All Americans. For historical and art interest these rank only second to those of Washington himself. They bring together Washington's generals in the Revolutionary army, the members of his Cabinet, the Supreme Court of his day, besides other outstanding patriots such as Benjamin Franklin, John Adams,

Robert Morris, John Jay, John
Marshall, James Monroe, James Madison and Lafayette.

The United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission reports that it labored for more than a year assembling this great collection. No such complete array of Washington portraits has ever been made, and nothing of the kind may be possible again, as the paintings are drawn from all over the United States and the world, from private as well as public sources; and such is the rising value of the pictures that they may never again be trusted out of their possessors' hands.

By the very nature of things,
this collection is one of the very few features of the Bicentennial Celebration that could not be tased to the people. But it has been drawn to the hundreds of thousands visiting the city of Washington this year. The exhibit will continue until Thanksgiving Day, the day the Bicentennial celebration comes to a close.

Among the 50,000 visitors to the exhibit thus far have been notables from all over the world. Recently the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, was to be-seen with Secretary of the Navy, Charles F. Adams, commenting on the resemblance between the present representative of the Adams family and the Gilbert Stuart portrait of his great-great grandfather, John Adams, first Vice President and Second President, which Secretary Adams has loaned to the exhibition.

After luncheon contract was played and auction bridge.

Attending from Dixon were Mrs.
Harry Bead, Mrs. Hal Roberts,
Mrs. Floyd Chapman, Mrs. Florence Crofts, Mrs. Chas. Bishop, and Mrs. Arthur Morris of Franklin Grove. Mesdames Rose, McFarland, Novotny and Elmer of La-Grange were also guests.

Three Trey Club With Miss Wallace

The Three Tray Bridge club was happily entertained last evening at the home of Miss Jean Wallace.
Miss Virginia Geer was awarded the favor for high score and Miss Inez Miller won the consolation favor. Roses were the lovely decorations. A tempting luncheon was served.

CHICAGO TO HAVE NO OPERA THIS WINTER

Chicago, June 22—(AP)—Chicago will hear no opera next winter, directors of the Chicago civic opera company decided today. They accepted the resignation of Samuel Insull, former utilities magnate, as president. They took no action toward choosing a successor to the man who always guaranteed to cover its deficits but recently lost his business.

DREAMERS.

Usually a landlord will fight like grim death to make a delinquent tenant pay what he owes. But the New York courts the other day saw a case in which a landlord was so anxious to have a tenant move out that he offered to forget three months back rent that was due and agreed to pay the tenant a $10 cash bonus besides.

The tenant was a sculptor—a dreamy chap addicted to modernism, who had all of the self-esteem of the traditional artist but who could not find, anywhere, a market for his wares, and who consequently never had any money or any prospects of getting any.

The landlord, discouraged, told the judge, "I was good to him, and I tried to understand his way, but he is a dreamer—you know what a dreamer is?"

And that remark, somehow, gives one a good deal of sympathy for this landlord. For the dreamer can be one of the most exasperating of mortals to deal with, because he does not live in the same world that the rest of us inhabit, but goes about in a special world of his own, and lives by its laws, and gives to us of the workaday world a lofty disregard which is often acutely annoying.

Generally the dreamer never even comes close to a realization of his dream. He supplies the world with its cranks, its eccentric hermits, its incompetents, its ridiculous freaks; people who have to get along with him usually find their patience sorely tried, and those who are dependent on him are generally out of luck.

But you never know. Once in a great while the dreamer fools you and makes his dream come true. He has an unaccountable way of turning out to be a Peter the Hermit setting all of Europe ablaze or a James Watt tinkering with a machine that causes mankind to remake its civilization or an Orville Wright teaching men to fly through the air and over the sea; and because the borderline between genius and footless eccentricity is so hazy, dealing with a dreamer is a discomfiting business.

"You know what a dreamer is?" That's just the trouble. No one ever knows.

THE BONUS ARMY.

It is easy to see that the "encampment" of the bonus army at Washington gives the capital city authorities one of the weirdest and most perplexing problems any municipal officers have ever had to face.

In strict logic there is no reason whatever for the presence of all of these impecunious veterans; no reason whatever why Washington should feed them and house them while they are waiting for a decision on their demands for money; no reason, in fact why any outside parties should help them out of the predicament into which they have got themselves.

And yet—when 10,000 men drop down on you, lacking money, food or housing, you can't let them starve. Drive them out of town and you simply pass the problem on to some other city. Take care of them and you invite others to join their number.

It's a ticklish problem. The Washington officials have the sympathy of the rest of the country—if that's any comfort to them.

A FORWARD STEP.

The giant dirigible Akron and her sister-ship, the Macon, now under construction, may be the most spectacular things the lighter-than-air transportation field has to offer; but there is being established now at Akron, Ohio, a thing which may yet prove infinitely more valuable to the cause.

That is the Guggenheim Airship Research Institute. It is being organized to make a scientific study of lighter-than-air flying, and in a short time it will have all the established facts and worth-while theories about dirigible flying tabulated and available for study.

In the long run this will be a great help for aviation. Something of the sort has been badly needed for years. Its establishment should speed the day when travel by dirigible is as common as travel by airplane is now.

PAT ROCHE'S AUTO.

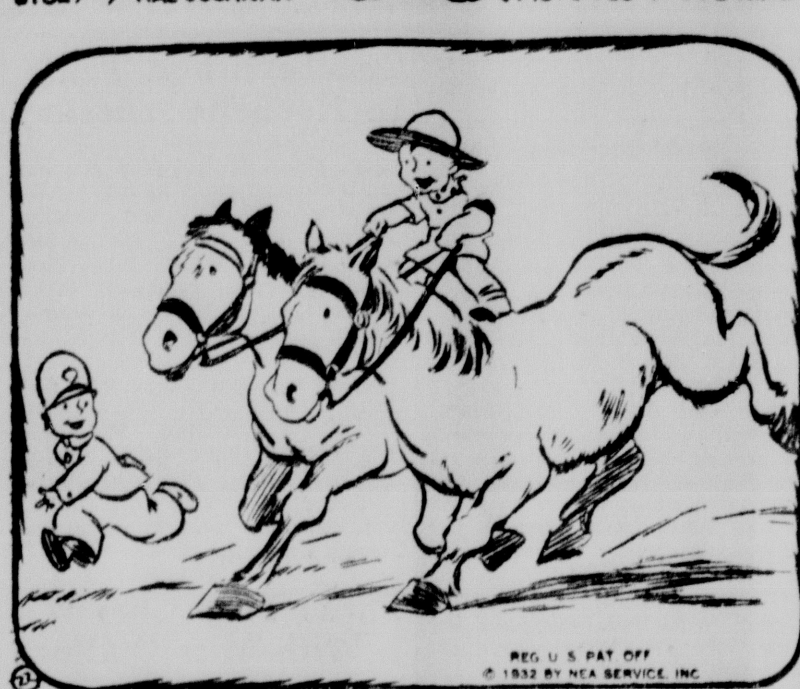

One of the interesting bits of news from Chicago recently was a brief dispatch stating that thieves had stolen the automobile owned by Pat Roche, famous investigator for the state's attorney of Cook county.

It is interesting because it seems to prove that thieves, in Chicago at least, are no respecters of persons.

Roche is probably as much feared by the underworld as any police officer in America. His work in Chicago has shown him to be that rarity in Chicago law enforcement, a fearless, competent and upright officer.

But his auto looked just like any other to the thieves. Did the thieves want to show their defiance in an especially flagrant way? Or did they, perchance, take the car in ignorance of its ownership? And, if they did, how did they feel when they learned the truth?

For return of equilibrium, we need security. No economic peace is possible without political peace.—Edouard Herriot, premier of France, at Lausanne conference.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The dogs, with monkeys on their backs, were used to running on race tracks 'cause they'd been with a circus since the day that they were born.

They had been trained to tear around real fast and over lots of ground. Ten minutes of real racing didn't make them look fidgety. The monkeys, though, were bounced about and anxious to get off, no doubt. One of them started squealing and this made the Tinies smile.

"Stay on there, Jocko," Coppy cried. "You're really having quite a ride. The dogs will stop and then we'll turn you both loose, after while."

But Jocko felt he had had his share. He thought the going was too rough, so with a very funny squeak, he jumped up in the air. He then seemed happy as could be and scrambled up a nearby tree. The dog he left stopped short. He knew the monkey wasn't there.

Said Dunce, "Well, the race is over. What did that monkey scamper for?" "Oh, what's the difference?" Scouty snapped. We have had our share of this."

"Let's find some other things to do. I'm ready now for something new. There are a lot of sights around here that we don't want to miss."

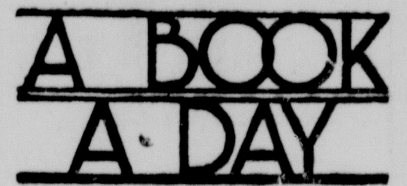

The Tinies then went to a place that brought a smile to each one's face. A lot of circus ponies were the first sight that they spied.

Said Scouty, "Say! I have a hunch that I'll surprise this happy bunch. Bring out two of the ponies and I'll show you how to ride."

The ponies soon were hitched up right and Scouty, full of keen delight, climbed up, one foot on each of them, and shouted, "Well, let's go!"

"Giddyup!" yelled Windy. "Run real fast! Well cheer you as you race right past." Then, as the ponies ran, brave Scouty put on quite a show.

(The Tinies watch the firemen dogs in the next story.)

"Crooner," by Rian James, will be interesting to a lot of people because they will think they recognize in its central character a certain famous radio star. It will be interesting to others because it shows how a good press agent can build a nobody up into a famous somebody.

The story tells about a jazz band leader who plays in a New York night club. One night his cornetist, who sings as a sideline, is ill. The leader looks around desperately for another singer, can find none, and at last sings the songs himself—not because he thinks he has a voice, but because the songs have to be sung and there is no one else to do it. His voice being too weak to carry, he sings through a megaphone.

A slick press agent spots him and decides that he has possibilities. There is an interview, a contract is signed and before long the young band leader is becoming famous. He gets radio contracts; his press agent hires three stenographers to write several thousand letters to the radio station; the gossip columnists start mentioning him—

And one day the young chap discovers he is one of the most talked-about men in America, and one of the most highly-paid.

Mr. James is rather bitter about the whole racket. His band leader is stupid and conceited, his press agent is a conscienceless chiseler, his minor characters are chiefly a bunch of rats. Whether he has sketched his radio singer from life I know not, but it is obvious that the scene itself is taken from life. The seamstress side of Broadway is presented here—And the upshot is a pretty good book.

FREE-WING PLANE

BURBANK, Cal. — C. W. Corbush has invented a free-winging plane, which he says, will be aviation what free-wheeling is to the automotive industry. Once off the ground the plane needs no controlling in the air, he says. He recently took the plane up 2000 feet, sent the control stick down by a parachute jumper, and successfully landed the ship 20 minutes later.

The quantity of water underneath the earth's surface is said to be more than one-third of the total volume of the oceanic waters. This underground water is composed of rivers and springs with no visible sources.

Yes, it's true. Florence Watson, comely stenographer in New York's State Education Department, smilingly admitted it when this picture was taken. She's engaged to marry Walter J. Smith, youngest son of former Governor Alfred E. Smith.

JAPANESE HOLD WHALING BASE IN MANCHURIA

Territory, Leased, Is One Of Importance In The Industry

Washington, D. C. — Japan's stake in Manchuria, usually associated with beans and grain, has a less known aspect in the whaling industry. It is pointed out in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. The seat of the industry is not in the portion of Manchuria to which Japanese influence was recently extended, but is in the leased territory of Kwantung, which Japan acquired from Russia and China in 1905.

"As the older whaling grounds of the world have been largely depleted in later years, most whaling countries have had to look farther and farther from their home ports for schools of the huge sea mammals," says the bulletin. "These distances may be tremendous, as in the case of the Norwegian and English whalers who carry on their operations in the Antarctic Ocean. The Japanese, by contrast, are singularly fortunate in still having important whaling grounds near home, in the Sea of Okhotsk, the Sea of Japan, and the Yellow Sea."

Centered on Elliott Islands. "The latter is one of the most important of the whaling areas and at the same time one of the most convenient. The whales are caught in the spring in the bays and gulfs at the head of the sea, the Gulf of Pechihli and Korea Bay, as well as in the Yellow Sea itself between the Shantung Peninsula and the Korean coast. Only a few miles to the north, off the shore of Kwantung Peninsula, lie the Elliott Islands which have been made an efficient base for the handling of the huge carcasses.

"The Elliott group (known locally as the Lichangshan Islands) consists of nine main islands ranging in length from a mile to nine miles, and a number of islets and isolated rocks. All the main islands are uninhabited. The reducing plants are on one of the larger islands. On other of the islands are ship-building and ship repair facilities. On still another is a large population of fishermen in addition to whalers on the islands, this salt industry ties in well with the other island activities. Large quantities of fish are salted down and shipped to consuming points in Manchuria and China.

American Whalers Helped. "Whaling has been an important activity in Japanese waters for many centuries, and is probably as old as the whale fisheries of western Europe. American whalers frequented Japanese and Chinese waters in the early part of the nineteenth century, and helped create the situation which led to Perry's mission to Japan which opened that country up to commercial relations with the United States and other western nations.

"As was the case in Europe, whale utilization was at first confined to the creatures stranded on shore, and later was extended to hunting from boats. For a long time a favorite method among the Japanese was to cast rope nets in front of whales caught in currents near shore. When the animals became ensnared, they were towed to shore and killed with spears. Within the past quarter century the industry has been thoroughly modernized along western lines. The fisheries centering on the Elliott Islands have equipment that compares favorably with that of any European whaling base. Even the largest whales can be completely reduced in one hour.

"Until 1906 foreign whalers fished off the coasts of Japan and Korea, especially Norwegians. In that year Japan forbade foreign whaling in her waters, and since then only Japanese companies with ship flying Japanese flags have carried on the activities. Most phases of the work are in Japanese hands, but nearly every ship hires an expert Norwegian gunner."

MARY GARDEN COMING BACK

Returns From Corsica, Where She Went to "Ride a Mule"—To Give "Carmen" Again at Cleveland

By NEA Service—

Tempestuous Mary Garden, for two decades America's most colorful woman, is coming back to America's front pages and grand opera with booming firecrackers as her accompaniment!

Mary, the embodiment of independence herself, could not have asked for a more appropriate welcome than the din of Independence Day. And the Fourth's red flares will find her once more in the role of "Carmen"—the seductive and fiery Spanish gypsy girl who is stabbed in the heart by her lover, Jose.

The prima donna is coming from Corsica where she retreated more than a year ago "to write a book and ride a mule," to return to the grand opera stage in Cleveland where 20,000 persons each evening will hear one of the most unusual opera presentations ever produced.

In Cleveland's huge stadium, the nights of June 28 and July 4 Mary again will sing the role she loves to take.

The Chicago Civic Opera was the vehicle for Mary's rise to soprano stardom which began sensationally at the Opera Comique in Paris in 1900. Scheduled to make her debut in "Carmen" she was called from the wings one night to sing the lead in the opera "Louise" when the prima donna was stricken ill.

Instantly her name jumped into the headlines and she gave 305 consecutive performances of the opera "Louise."

Returning to America after seven years, her first New York appearance furnished the debut of the opera "Thais" as well as of Mary Garden. When critics raved her, saying she could not sing like Melba or Sembrich, Mary set her own best press agent since 1910 when she told distraught American women she didn't believe they should have equal suffrage.

She walked around like a cat in a bed of catnip, blurted Chicago's police chief.

She became general director of the Chicago opera. Then the resignations flowed in Lucien Muratore, Lina Cavalieri quit in a Right—the modern Mary Garden of "Katiusha" in "Resurrection," and left, in the role of "Salome" which shocked the nation a decade ago.

huffed, Ganna Walska packed off to Europe. "Too much temperament," they said.

In 1922, Mary retired to the ranks of the Chicago company and shortly afterward resigned to go on tour—for $250,000. It was in Cleveland, where she returns, that reviewers as late as 1926 found her "Carmen" a trifle shocking.

But it was all good "box office" stuff for Mary. She ever has been her own best press agent since 1910 when she told distraught American women she didn't believe they should have equal suffrage.

She shocked the world in 1922 by swimming in the Mediterranean in a one-piece bathing suit sans shoulder straps. And later when this wasn't thought so sinful she jolled on Riviera sands and swam Corsican seas without benefit of costume, her suit eternal youth and slenderness.

Last year she dropped back to Chicago, her erstwhile red hair turned to tawny gold curls by Corsica's tropical sun.

Not content to stay out of the limelight, Mary consented to make the long journey to Cleveland when told the production of her favorite "Carmen" would be quite as unusual as herself.

The opera will be given out-of-doors on a stage of 50,000 square feet in a "modern" fashion, with modern dress and staging, authentic street scenes with donkeys, coats, birds and other animals in the pageantry of the famous Spanish scenes.

Mason street has been recently repainted.

W. C. Weninger spent the latter part of last week in Chicago attending the Republican national convention.

Oliver Holt, the newly engaged agricultural teacher for the high school has rented the A. J. Barlow house at the corner of Stroble avenue and Pleasant street. He expects to move from Waterman August 1. At the present time Mr. Barlow is building a new garage on this property.

Charles Syvold is spending the summer with relatives and friends in Canton, South Dakota. He formerly lived in that community before coming to Amboy with his mother.

Albert Roster is taking a six week's special course at the DeKalb State Teacher's College.

Several from Amboy and vicinity attended the Dixon theater Sunday evening.

Ray Weber attended the races at Washington Park near Chicago Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eddy and daughter were shoppers in Dixon Saturday evening.

Joseph Rabbitt left Saturday morning for New York where he will make his home with his sister, Joe. He has many friends here who regret very much to see him leave Amboy but wish him happiness and success in his new home.

Dick Donaldson and Andrew Keno were among those from here who attended the V. F. W. state convention at Sterling Saturday.

The Red sedan belonging to Robert Nowe which was considerably damaged when it turned over Saturday night was taken to Dixon Monday for repairs.

G. C. Ryan of Maquoketa, Iowa, is transacting business here this week.

Shirley Anderson of Moline is visiting her cousin, Mary Louise Turnquist.

Leo Farnham went to Ft. Dodge, to visit his sister.

MAYTOWN

By Frances McFadden
Maytown — J. L. Carrington is able to be out again, having been confined to his home for the last two months by a fractured leg.

Rose Powers is making a rapid recovery from her operation for appendicitis to which she submitted at the Dixon hospital Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Chandler were made happy by the arrival of an eight pound boy at their home on Saturday, June 19. Congratulations.

We regret very much to learn that Mrs. Clarence Morrissey, nee Margaret Friel of this place, is seriously ill at the Dixon hospital.

Mrs. Joseph Sharkey of Dixon and baby Margaret Ann are visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. George Meade the past week.

Word was received by relatives here of the death in an automobile accident of Charles Eccles Jr., of Minnesota, formerly of this place.

At 2:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning, June 15, one of Maytown's most popular young ladies passed away from this life when the grim reaper claimed the life of Miss Margaret McGovern in the very flower of her young womanhood, she having only attained the age of 25 years. She submitted to an operation at the Amboy hospital on May 13 from which operation she was making a splendid recovery but a sudden change in her condition was noted on Monday, May 23 and from then on little hope was entertained for her. She suffered intensely yet patiently and with a perfect resignation to the will of Almighty God in whom she had the greatest trust and confidence.

Margaret was gifted with a sweet personality with a friendliness that reached out to everyone and the large crowd which attended her funeral services at St. Patrick's church on Friday morning bore testimony to this fact. Her pastor, Rev. Urban Halbmair said the mass and in the sermon which followed paid a glowing tribute to the Christian life of the departed one stressing particularly how she strived mightily for the things that are eternal and set small store on the things that are temporal.

She leaves to mourn her untimely death her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGovern; three sisters, Mrs. Joseph Leffelman and Mrs. Leo Goy of Maytown and Mrs. R. S. Scott of Chicago; three brothers, Hugh, James and Thomas of Maytown, and a host of friends. To you our sympathy and understanding are rushing these days which we know are so heavy and dark for you. We are deeply grieved for we all loved Margaret for the fine qualities that she had and for the beautiful spirit that she always showed. We like to feel that that dear daughter and sister of yours and dear friend of ours is "standing in the sunshine, with God's work done." Her memory is ever dear. Interment was in St. Patrick's cemetery.

Maytown, Pa. — Thomas H. Mathews, was walking along the banks of the Scioto river when he heard cries. He looked and saw a small girl floundering in water over her head. Mathews dived in, to the water and rescued her. Looking out again he found a small boy submerged about 18 inches below the water. Again he dived in, and rescued the child. After it was all over he found out that he hadn't stopped to ask the names of the children.

SHARKEY MUST FIGHT GERMAN AGAIN TO WIN

The Public Is Not Agreed With Decision In Tuesday's Fight

BULLETIN

New York, June 22.—(AP)—In the excitement of his warrior's losing the heavyweight championship, Joe Jacobs charged that there had been a deliberate plot, hatching for the past month, to rob Max Schmeling of the title. "A couple of weeks ago," he charged as he stormed in Schmeling's dressing room, "I told newspapermen and it was printed that I would not allow Schmeling to leave his dressing room if a 'certain referee' was named to officiate in his match with Sharkey. "But the boxing commission insisted that we would get a square deal, even though I had every confidence in the source of my information. So we went in and got robbed. And the referee I referred to two weeks ago was in that ring last night, Gunboat Smith."

By EDWARD J. O'NEIL
New York, June 22.—(AP)—The seen long lean years ended officially today for Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion of the world at last, after the strangest, most paradoxical career in all modern ring history.

He stood forth as champion, absolved of all past failures, yet in the minds of a great many of the 70,000 who saw him climb the throne there will always linger some question until he again battles Schmeling. For fifteen long and often lack-luster rounds, they battled last night in the great bowl Madison Square Garden has built on Long Island—a Sharkey taming his traitorous temper, as he battled, and the stolid Teuton who owed his crown to one of the sailor's own moments of wildness when he fouled in the Yankee Stadium two years ago.

Humphries Hesitated
At the end, through the loud speakers that sent his voice out to one of the greatest throngs that ever saw prize fight, bellerin' Joe Humphries hesitated a bit as he shouted: "The winner, and new champion Jack Sharkey."

That hesitancy in old Joe's voice seemed to be echoed in the roar that went up from the crowd, in the split verdict of the two judges and Referee Gunboat Smith, the critics about the ringside, and even the warriors themselves. For a moment Sharkey's shoulders drooping as he stood in his corner, paused before he made his wild dash across the ring to embrace the former king, Schmeling turned and stared as though he could not believe his ears, and the experts promptly launched in to arguments.

They'll still be arguing, probably a year or so from today when, in the natural course of events, Sharkey is called upon again to face the foe from overseas.

Those who agreed with George Kelly, the judge who voted for Sharkey and Referee Smith, himself a famous old time fighter, who cast the deciding vote, could see nothing but that Sharkey, fighting the coolest, calmest duel of his hectic career, had consistently outboxed the charging Teuton, spattering his face and ribs through most of the fifteen rounds with jabbing left jab.

Sharkey In Retreat
It seemed from that side that the Boston sailorman, although always in retreat, had followed the battle plan of a more illustrious predecessor, Gene Tunney, always on the defensive, never leaving an opening but drifting through steadily with counting left hooks and right cross to the head and body to give him a margin on points.

But to a wide majority of the critics, it seemed that Max had earned the right to retain his crown, even if not by any great margin.

For the entire fifteen rounds, durable as a army tank, the German marched into Sharkey, never once taking a back step, continually inflicting the only real damage that showed in the entire distance. His short, right-hand jabs to the head, started Sharkey's left eye dropping in the early rounds and closed it completely in the last three.

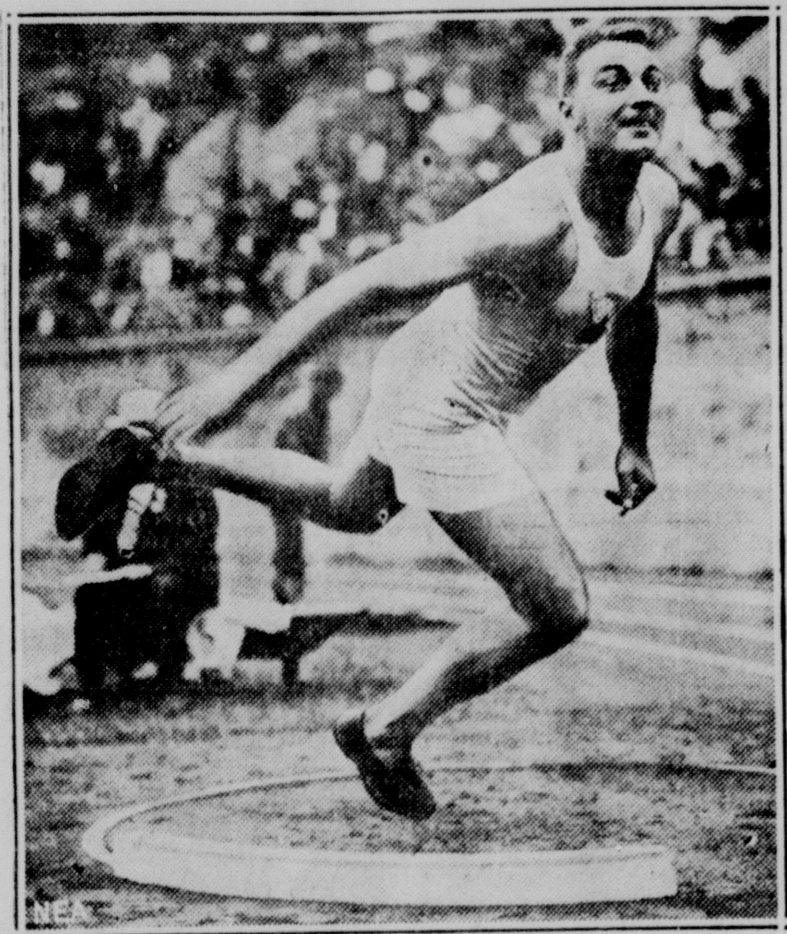

He missed a great many punches, short swings that Sharkey pulled away from as he concentrated doggedly on his plan of battle—jab, hook, counter, and retreat. At times he seemed to make the tactical error of jabbing with the long-armed New Englander, and when he did that Schmeling seemed to be beating him to the punch.

No Real Thrills
That sort of milling made a fight in which there never was a really thrilling moment, never a touch of the dramatic and the spectacular that the faithful have come to expect of their heavyweight title tilts.

For Sharkey's battle plan, drilled into him all through his long conditioning grind, worked to perfection. He kept Max off balance with his left jabs, losing his left hook and right cross only when the opening loomed large, he was always in retreat, but always piling up points.

Then for a couple of rounds the sun-blacked German, never discouraged, never changing his forcing tactics, plodded past Sharkey's guard, belting his head with hard

A Shot-Put Heard 'Round the World

He tossed the shot 52 feet, 8 5/8 inches.

Then for a couple of rounds the sun-blacked German, never discouraged, never changing his forcing tactics, plodded past Sharkey's guard, belting his head with hard rights, and reaching him with an occasional jab.

Was Self-Controlled
But then Sharkey edged out again, through the half-way point more self-controlled than ever before in a career that includes his famous blow-up against Jack Dempsey, his tired efforts when a choice of Gene Tunney's last ring foe was up for decision, and his errate punching that cost him his first Schmeling battle.

So it went until the last three rounds, uninspired, unexciting milling that failed to enthrall a gathering that paid over $400,000 to the Garden and the Free Milk Fund for Babies, Inc.

In the stretch it was Schmeling, and not the new champion, who seemed along as fresh as though he had just been warming up for the hard rounds. In the occasional punching flurries, he hurt Sharkey with hard rights to the head, Sharkey's left eye closed tight, but still the sailor boxed, jabbing, hooking, piling up points and retreating.

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
New York, June 22.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey's victory over Max Schmeling for the world heavyweight championship tonight was greeted as the crowning touch to one of the ring's strangest careers.

The decision in the Boston sailor's favor, after 15 somewhat monotonous rounds, was as sudden a "break" of fortune for him as have been the frustrations previously in his erratic course through the heavyweight ranks over a six year period.

The Sharkey who walked out of the ring with the world title, finally on a 2 to 1 verdict of the officials, was not the convincing fighter of the nights he whipped Harry Wills, knocked out Jimmy Maloney and floored big Primo Carnera. He looked more like the careless fellow who had wasted chances, by his lack of aggressiveness, against Heene, Risko and Dempsey.

Sharkey at no time showed the punching superiority and spirited drive that had given him an overwhelming margin over Schmeling two years ago up to the time the big sailor swung low and fouled out. He looked like the complete master of Schmeling in 1930. Last night he seemed to be biding his time, trusting to luck. To most every body's surprise, he suddenly found it with him as the clear Irish voice of Joe Humphries proclaimed him "the winner, and new champion."

There was nothing more than a vocal rebuttal to the verdict which went to Sharkey on the vote of Ref-

Experts Agree Schmeling Got Very "Raw Deal"

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Metropolitan newspaper critics disputed today the 2 to 1 vote that gave Jack Sharkey the decision over Max Schmeling. "It has been the legend," said W. O. McGeehan of the Herald-Tribune, "that a foreign fighter could not get a square deal in the United States, especially in New York. Up to this time I felt that this merely was a legend, but that decision given last night was the worst I have ever seen in peering intently at these things for a quarter of a century or more."

Paul Gallico of the News said: "Schmeling's steady pursuit, the sting in his left and right and his strong fighting finish were enough to give him the fight." Damon Runyon of the American said: "Personally I gave Schmeling quite a lead in my score of the rounds and was surprised at the decision."

James P. Dawson of the Times said: "I gave Schmeling nine rounds, Sharkey five and one even. x x x Schmeling won, in this writer's opinion, x x x because of a tireless, persistent, unswerving offensive he launched at the opening bell and never once interrupted, even in the face of Sharkey's best blows."

Francis Wallace of the News said: "The worst Schmeling should have had was a draw—and that was not enough to take his championship away."

Richards Vindmer of the Herald-Tribune said: "No longer can the former sailor comp' in about the breaks, for last night he got perhaps the biggest break a challenger for the heavyweight championship received."

Mayor James J. Walker chimed in on a similar note. In a broadcast to Germany after the fight, he said: "In my humble opinion, Schmeling should have won."

eree "Gunboat" Smith, himself an old-time heavyweight, but it was the loudest that has been heard in many a moon in the working press section. The crowd was at least six to one in their conviction that Schmeling had won and that by no stretch of the imagination could the German have been given worse than a draw.

Believe 290 Will Win Golf Tourney

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Flushing, N. Y., June 22.—(AP)—They were wagering today that a score of 290 will be good enough to win this year's national open golf championship, the 72-hole marathon opening tomorrow over the Fresh Meadow Country Club course.

It is, they say, the sternest golfing test ever devised for the open, excepting only Oakmont, where Tommy Armour's 301 was sufficient to win in 1928. Some declare it is tough as Oakmont.

Par for the layout is a misleading 70. Few ever have equalled perfect figures in competition and only one, Leo Diegel, has scored a 69 from the championship tees.

The course measures 6,815 yards with a bunker for almost every yard. The front nine is 3,407 yards and the back 3,408, an uncommonly even division.

A feature is its string of eight long par-four holes, placing a premium on distance from the tee as well as length and accurate iron play. The only two par-fives on the card measure 578 and 587 yards.

WILD PITCHES, HIT IN NINTH DECIDED GAME

Wink's Specials Won From Clowns 5-4 Last Evening

GAMES TONIGHT
Merchants vs City Dudes—South field.
Highland vs Brady—Independent field.
Ideal Cafe vs Swissville—North field.

The game which had been scheduled Friday evening between the Brady Villagers and the Merchants has been postponed until a later date. Both of the diamonds at the high school athletic field have been improved with the erection of backstops of woven wire.

Wink's Specials defeated the Clowns last evening in a fast game at the south field which went to the final half of the ninth inning when Menke heaved two wild ones which coupled with a single sent Ted Ryan across the plate with the deciding run. The score:

Peoria Baseball Man Dropped Dead

Peoria, Ill., June 22.—(AP)—John C. Ryan, 53, vice president of the Peoria Baseball League, died suddenly, apparently of heart disease, in his home here last night shortly after listening to a radio broadcast of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight at New York.

His nephew, Donald O'Meara, found the sportsman's body slumped in a chair just five minutes after a friend, Max Broderick, had left the Ryan home after sitting beside him through the fight reception.

Ryan seemed in the best of health and was at his cigar store all day yesterday. The excitement of the fight, physicians said, might have induced heart attack. Ryan was also president of the Peoria Baseball Fans' Association.

Sarazen Cops British Open Cup and—

Right across that glass-smooth green marched the little white pellet—and America's Gene Sarazen was Britain's open golf champion! . . . The picture shows Sarazen "holing out" at the end of his winning round at Sandwich, England, while silent, keenly appreciative galleries watched their coveted golf crown go to the veteran link star from overseas. It was Sarazen's last and 283rd stroke—a tournament record.

DEAN SHOWS HE CAN PITCH REAL GAME IF WILLING

He Defeats Giants In Effort to Win Gabby's Forgiveness

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Jerome Herman Dean, eccentric right-hander of the St. Louis Cardinals, perhaps is trying to discover whether the best way to Manager E. F. Ladd's heart is through gill-edged pitching.

The dizzy one, whose career with the Cardinals has been one big argument after another, quit the team a few days ago in Philadelphia. He repented as quickly, returned to the fold and yesterday when he stopped the New York Giants cold with six hits to win a 5-1 decision.

Dean blanked the Giants for eight innings but saw a possible shot-out vanish in the ninth when Mel Ott doubled and Frank Hogan singled.

Meantime the Chicago Cubs were increasing their National League lead by trouncing the Phillies, 12-3 while the second place Boston Braves accepted a 9-3 beating from Cincinnati.

The Cubs Blasted Out
The Cubs blasted out 14 hits including home runs by Moore and Hartnett, to win easily behind Pat Malone's steady pitching. Chuck Klein's 19th homer with one on accounted for two Philly runs.

Babe Herman had a field day with a home run and three singles as the Reds checked the Braves. Ray Kolp gave the tribe seven hits, two of them homers by Berger and Worthington.

Fred Heimach pitched effectively and hit a home run and a single, driving in three runs, as Brooklyn beat Pittsburgh, 9-2, and went into a tie with the Pirates for third place.

Yankee Boost Lead
Chad Kimsey's three base wild throw of a sacrifice punt permitted the New York Yankees to score three runs in the ninth, beat the St. Louis Browns, 11-8, and increase their lead in the American League. Lou Gehrig hit his 15th homer with two on in the third.

The Philadelphia Athletics got only six hits off Milt Gaston and the Chicago White Sox walked off with a 3-1 decision, bunching hits off Rube Walberg for all their runs in the eighth. George Uhle's pinch triple in the ninth gave Detroit a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox. Washington pounded Jack Russell off the mound in the eighth, scored five runs and won 8-3.

PLAY DAY FOR GOLFERS DIXON COUNTRY CLUB

Match Play Tomorrow to Start Promptly At 2 O'Clock

Tomorrow has been set aside for a Play Day by the Sports and Pastimes Committee of the Dixon Country Club. An interesting program has been arranged and all members are requested to be ready to play not later than 2 o'clock.

Straight golf will be played and the team captains have been selected. Dinner will be served early enough so that members may get away early if they wish to do so. The golf will be strictly at match play, Nassau scoring, and the losing team will invite the victors to dinner. Each member will be opposed to an opponent who has the same handicap.

The two captains are apparently taking the affair very seriously because they have been seen conferring with Tim Sullivan the official scorer and umpire. Evidently there promises to be need of an umpire and it is understood that Mr. Sullivan has called in several assistants.

It is important that players be present promptly at 2 o'clock so that the foursomes and matches may be arranged and started in order. It is rumored that one of the captains has made plans to bring out a low handicap player from Chicago, disguised in a beard; but his rival captain has been warned and it is very questionable if the ruse will succeed.

Pitches No-Hit Game But Loses

Decatur, Ill., June 22.—(AP)—Joe Noonan, 21-year-old college graduate from California, made his debut in organized baseball by pitching a no-hit game for Danville, Ill., but today he was down in the records of the Three-I League as the losing pitcher.

Decatur won the game here last night by a score of 1 to 0, although Noonan allowed not a semblance of a hit for nine innings, struck out seven opposing batsmen and only walked two. Errors helped Decatur to victory.

First Baseman Walters got on first in the sixth due to a walk and a forced out and stole second. Noonan's next pitch was high and Walters raced to third. The Danville catcher retrieved the ball and threw it widely to third, allowing Walters to score.

Noonan is a product of St. Mary's College of California.

Slaughter, Terre Haute, outpointed Ray Tramble, Rockford, Ill., (10).

WASHINGTON IS STIRRED UP BY DRY LAW TALK

Sen. Borah Continues His Assault On Everything Moist

Washington, June 22—(AP)—A swift succession of startling developments around the prohibition question today kept the Capital stirred to fever pitch.

Hardly had political Washington calmed down from Speaker Garner's unexpected declaration for repeal of the 18th Amendment yesterday, when Senator Borah of Idaho told the Senate that Postmaster General Brown, close political adviser to the President, had said he preferred return of the saloon to present conditions, and that he expected to see it return.

Up to this morning this statement had gone unchallenged by Brown.

It was Borah's second spectacular prohibition declaration in as many days, and was the direct outcome of his speech to the Senate Monday condemning and rejecting the Republican platform and all its planks, particularly the resubmission one. In that speech he said Brown and Secretary Mills were for repeal.

Both denied it. Brown's statement of denial revealed a private conversation he had with E. A. Tamm, chief justice of the Supreme Court, and with Borah in which, he said, both opposed naked repeal.

Borah Gives Version

This stirred Borah to give his version of the meeting.

"I said in that conversation that I had been for months undertaking to devise a plan by which you could protect the states which wanted to be dry, and secondly, by which you could prevent the return of the American saloon. That is precisely what I stated to Mr. Brown."

"I said that I had made progress with reference to the question of protecting the states which wanted to be dry, but that I had reached the conclusion that once you legalized the sale of intoxicating liquors in the United States, there was no possible way to prevent return of the American saloon. That is practically what I said for what I said."

Read His Own Plank

"Mr. Brown repeated: 'I think you are right. Once you legalize the sale of intoxicating liquors, I do not see how you are going to control the method of selling them.' He said: 'I expect to see the return of the saloon and I would rather have it than the present condition of affairs.'"

Borah read then the prohibition plank draft which he had urged in vain upon party leaders prior to the convention. It declared for enforcement of the law until the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment through the election of members of Congress.

As for Mills' denial that he was for repeal, Borah quoted a letter written by the cabinet member in 1926. In this Borah said Mills held the Eighteenth Amendment an "object of scorn and contempt" and "a festering sore on the body politic."

Revision of Ideas

Washington political appraisers who weeks ago assigned Garner's presidential chances to the outer darkness, revised their ideas today, estimating the potential consequence of his dramatic anti-prohibition and willing-to-run announcement.

The Texan timed and staged his declaration yesterday in a manner that hardly could have been surpassed for effect.

It hit just on the rising tide of final prohibition tumult, with the anti-Roosevelt preparations in Chicago at fever heat. He had been absent from the congressional picture for ten days, kept to his bed by illness. The House was all but done with its work for the session, his job as Speaker, to which he ascribed earlier silence, virtually completed for the time.

Those who watched him had always expected him to say yes or no just before the convention or at adjournment of Congress to the support given him for the Democratic nomination by Texas or California. But, so much had his presidential stock gone down after the House dealing with vital legislation twice burst all the bounds of control exercised by him and his group of leaders, that they were not prepared for what happened yesterday.

Mayor Victim In Fight With Thugs

Chicago, June 22—(AP)—George Hahn, Mayor of Suburban South Chicago Heights, Ill., early today engaged three holdup men in a pistol fight when they accosted him on a highway and killed one, expressed belief his bullets fatally wounded another.

Mayor Hahn said the bandit car drove alongside of his near Chicago Heights, about 20 miles south of the loop, and its occupants opened fire when he disregarded their order to stop.

Three bullets crashed into his windshield and one into the side window, narrowly missing him. Hahn said he drew his pistol and returned the fire. As the bandits turned to flee, he said, he saw one of them fall from the car to the highway.

Later, attaches of St. James hospital, reported a dead man, identified as Dominick Gaicino, 22, of Chicago Heights, was brought into the hospital.

Mayor Hahn expressed belief Gaicino was one of the men he shot.

TWO PRESIDENTIAL BOMBS GET UNDER WAY

Before any delegates had arrived in Chicago for the Democratic National Convention, headquarters of the Chicago presidential boom were buzzing with activity. Pictured here, as they talked over plans, are Texas State Senator Walter F. Woodul, left, manager of the Garner campaign, and W. R. Montgomery, member of Texas Democratic State executive committee.

Daily Health Talk

HYPERTENSION

High blood pressure is known to be definitely associated with such conditions as arteriosclerosis and diseases of the kidneys. But there are certain conditions in which high blood pressure exists, without any apparent organic reason.

Patients suffering from hypertension commonly complain of nervousness, dizziness, fatigue, insomnia, and vasomotor disorders, the latter frequently taking the form of flushes, sensations of heat, unwarranted perspiration, and the like.

Psychoneurotic patients, or, as they are commonly described, patients suffering from nervousness, complain of similar disorders, and the idea naturally suggests itself that possibly the very same type of condition that in one patient produces "nervousness" may in another produce hypertension, or both conditions simultaneously.

The high blood pressure of these sufferers could be lowered by a wide variety of treatments, including suggestions, psychotherapy, a change of environment, removal of emotional disturbances, and the like.

On the other hand, not infrequently the onset of the symptoms of nervousness, dizziness, fatigue, insomnia, etc., could be established as having taken place at a time when the patient was emotionally or otherwise upset.

Blood pressure is essentially under the control of a portion of the nervous system, which is called vegetative.

This portion of the nervous system is not directly affected by volition, by the will, but these patients appear to be excessively susceptible to slight stimuli.

In so far as persistent hypertension to any organic cause may in time lead to degenerative changes in the circulatory system, an effort should be made to eliminate the responsible stimuli, conditions or circumstances.

REVIVE HOPES FOR AN ACCORD ON REPARATIONS

France Is Willing To Change Policy Her
Premier Says

Lausanne, Switzerland, June 22 —(AP)—The prospect of a Franco-British accord on the question of reparations rose over the conference of European powers here today and warmed what had been a virtual stalemate into new activity.

The new hope sprang last night when Premier Eduard Herriot of France informed Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain that France was ready to adopt a new policy, differing widely from her previous attitude, and including the virtual scrapping of the Young plan.

Three Main Points

The new French plan has three main points. It calls for:

1. Suspension of German reparations payments for one, two or more years.

2. Continuation of Germany's deliveries in kind.

3. A suggestion that, at the end of the suspension period, France would ask that a final global sum be fixed, spread among the United States and countries receiving reparations payments.

The new proposal had developed so far that the French and Belgian representatives even began a discussion of how much this final sum ought to be.

May Reach Accord

The British delegation indicated the proposals met with some degree of favor with them and intimated that the new French policy might result in a Franco-British accord.

M. Herriot's suggestion, as communicated to Mr. MacDonald, also asked for the reconstruction of Germany and central Europe, with restoration of credits.

If reparations payments were cancelled without the cancellation of the debts due the United States however, a French spokesman said, France would be economically ruined.

Highway Police Quarters Ready

Minor difficulties in connection with the establishment at Sterling of the state highway police headquarters for this district has been ironed out and the office is assured. It will be located in the Lincoln block house just east of Sterling, known as the Spencer property.

The teletype machines which are to have a state wide hookup will be installed some time this week. Everything is to be in readiness for the operation of the system on the morning of July 1. The first message is to be sent over the system at 8 o'clock that morning.

The machines will be equipped for both sending as well as receiving.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

SACROSANCT SALARIES

(From the Atlantic Constitution.)

The idea seems to prevail in the legislative bodies of the country, Federal, state and local, that official salaries are sacrosanct and that once fixed they must never be touched.

This is the theory back of the action of the Senate in turning down the 10 per cent cut in Federal salaries and substituting for it the furlough proposition of President Hoover.

Behind it all, involving as it does waste and extravagance, is political timidity on the part of legislative office holders, who fear to lose votes by doing the same thing in the government's business that they do in their own.

The fact that a man is holding a government position does not mean that he is entitled to receive more than another worker engaged in similar work with a private enterprise.

Public treasuries become pork barrels when men, as is frequently done, give up jobs in commercial concerns to accept government "positions" in which they are paid three or four times as much for doing a lesser amount of work.

A workman is worthy of his hire and he should receive adequate pay, but there is no reason why official salaries should be larger than those of private business.

Yet the average legislative body seems imbued with the idea that an official salary is untouchable. Even under present conditions when private business is cutting salaries to bring them in line with the sharp decline in living costs of the past two years, practically every effort to make similar reductions in official salaries is blocked.

It is a theory that is unsound both politically and economically and is putting the lash heavier on the back of the taxpayer.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by Laura Lou BROOKMAN
©1932 BY L. BROOKMAN INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
CHERRY DIXON, pretty 10-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with DAN PHILIPS, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan, leaves home, and taking advantage of Leap Year, asks Dan to marry her.

They are married and for the first time Cherry finds out what it means to lack money. Her struggles with housework are discouraging. DIXIE SHANNON, a social critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome MAX PEARSON, who also works on the News.

Cherry receives a letter from her mother enclosing a check for $500. She returns the check because pride will not let her keep it. A young woman living in the same apartment building attempts suicide and is taken to a hospital. Cherry sends the girl some flowers, and while down town meets Pearson who takes her to luncheon.

Dan undertakes to write a short story. He becomes discouraged and leaves it unfinished. Two days later Cherry is summoned to see a caller.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXV

HE was a young man wearing a chauffeur's uniform. Cherry caught sight of him before she had reached the foot of the stairs and rushed forward.

"Martin! Is anything wrong?" The young man hesitated. "Dr. Knowles sent me, Miss Cherry," he said. "He said I should bring you home. It's your mother—she's been sick all week and today—"

"Mother! You mean—oh, Martin, you don't mean—you don't mean it's serious?"

"All I know is you're to come at once," the chauffeur told her gravely. "The doctor's been there since morning. He said—"

The last words were lost as Cherry went flying up the stairway. She called over her shoulder, "Just a minute! I'll be right back!"

It was scarcely longer than that until she was stepping into the big Dunbar limousine. Martin closed the door after her and took the wheel. They spun around a corner and the car's speed increased. Martin, the perfect chauffeur, was driving more recklessly than Cherry had ever seen him.

Still it was not fast enough. "Can't we go faster?" Cherry urged. "Can't we hurry?"

There was no answer. The big car was certainly traveling above the speed limit. Cherry covered in one corner of the rear seat. Her face was pale, her eyes dark with fright and anxiety.

"It can't be!" she told herself over and over again. "It can't be Mother's going to die! God wouldn't do a thing like that. Oh, why does it take so long? Why can't we hurry?"

Her two hands were clenched tightly together. The words she had been mumbling formed themselves into a sort of prayer. Mother

Grand Detour News
GRAND DETOUR—Mr. and Mrs. George Prescott of Dixon entertained a number of friends at their cottage here in honor of their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary. Among the number were the former's brother, Homer Prescott and wife of Freeport and Winfield Caslow, the Main Street Crusader, who wear each day over station WJRD.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Moser and daughter spent the week end at the latter's parents, near DeKalb.

Mrs. Hulda Sheller and daughter Betty of Dixon spent Thursday and Friday with friends.

Mrs. Nancy Foxley has gone to Mayo Bros. in regard to her health. We hope she comes home soon much improved. Her daughter, Miss Esther of Dixon is with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Soellner and three daughters of River Forest spent the week end at their cottage.

Kenneth Harris spent Saturday evening with his uncle and aunt, Clair and Zula Beck.

Miss Amelia Lewis spent the day in Oregon with relatives recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Glessner were business callers at the Leonard Stevens home in the Kingdom on Friday morning.

Alfred Parks spent Sunday in Freeport with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Galen Moser and children were entertained at sup-

The nurse continued her way down the hall. . . .

THE girl shut her eyes in agony. Her hands, twisted into fists, pounded together. "Oh, God!" the girl prayed desperately, "make her get well! Don't let her die, dear God!"

She felt a hand on her shoulder and looked up. Sarah O'Fallon was standing beside her.

"There, darling," Sarah whispered gently, "don't take it so hard!" The girl buried her face in Sarah's apron. Suddenly the tears, long pent up, streamed down her face. Cherry wept quietly, her shoulders shaking with the deep sobs. She had never feared death before. She had scarcely thought about it. Now in the face of this terrible experience she was realizing how deep had been her love for her mother. Happy times in her childhood—all the joy that had come into that big house her mother had brought.

"I can't—bear it—Sarah!" she cried brokenly. "I can't bear it!" The older woman murmured reassuringly. Cherry's weeping continued, gradually becoming quieter.

They heard a door open and close. Cherry looked up and saw Dr. Knowles coming toward them. She arose.

The doctor nodded. He said, "Good afternoon, Cherry. Glad you're here. Shall we go where we can talk?"

ONE GUESS IS AS GOOD AN ANOTHER—SO HERE'S LIST OF "TEN BEST" PLAYS

BY GILBERT SWAN

New York, June 22—Insofar as Broadway may be said to have an official index of any year's best plays, that one is Burns Mantle, drama critic.

Mantle edits and anthologizes a year-book containing his own selections of the ten best plays, the texts thereof and a great many commentaries destined to be of value to folk interested in what is left of the theater and to those others who wish to write papers for luncheons and club sessions.

His list for this year follows:
Of "The I Sing," the Pulitzer prize winner, which combined the efforts of George Kaufman, Morrie Ryskind and the two Gershwins.

Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra."
Philip Barry's "The Animal Kingdom."

Robert Sherwood's "Reunion in Vienna."
Paul Green's "The House of Connelly."

Elmer Rice's "The Left Bank."
Rose Franken's "Another Language."

S. N. Behrman's "Brief Moment."
Benn Levy's "The Devil Passes."
H. M. Harwood's "Cynara."

Nothing can start an argument more quickly—unless the subjects be religion and prohibition—than anyone's list of ten anything.

And so your correspondent rises to ask M. Mantle what he did with "Counselor at Law" and "Moon in the Yellow River"—just to mention a couple. I might even bring up "Night Over Taos." Such intrusions would eliminate "Brief Moment," "The Devil Passes" and "The Animal Kingdom" for reasons that would start another argument.

However, Dr. Mantle is given the status of "official selector" and there's little to be said about it save that Mantle is a graduate of the Denver newspapers, where, upon those rainy night when the regular critic was taking time off, Mantle got his chance to view the theater. He came eventually to New York and has been writing theater news hereabouts for many years.

Incidentally, Sherwood's "Reunion in Vienna" has just been awarded the Mergue prize, which issues from the Drama Guild of the Authors' League. Only comedies are considered in this award.

Meanwhile it's the commuter who gets the hot weather theatrical breaks. From Mt. Kisco to Southampton, L. I. from Woodstock to Westport to the Maine Coast, players who were with jobs and without jobs have gathered for a vacation period of stock performances.

On Broadway, one of the most incredible works of the season, "Boy Friend," was found to issue from the pen of Carl Hunt, until recently a chief playreader for a large producing concern. If this be Mr. Hunt's notion of a comedy, what may have been the fate of many manuscripts which passed over his desk?

Then there was the return after all these years of Mabel Taliaferro with an experimental group, the Broome Streeters. Way back, when your correspondent was a mere gallery sifter, Miss Taliaferro was a large sized star in "Polly of the Circus." Then, like many another, she vanished from the picture.

Seemingly the art of acting has improved, or Miss Taliaferro has been away too long. In a company made up of little known players and with a leading role at hand, she did something less than distinguished work. Several players of whom the Broadway theater had never given much better performances.

ASHTON NEWS

By E. TILTON
ASHTON—Mrs. J. C. Griffith will be hostess to the woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church at her home Wednesday.
Raymond Losey, carrier on route 2, is enjoying his vacation.
Mrs. Rose Leslie has been ill

and confined to her home at the Herman Sanders home.

The H. O. Moore family and Mr. and Mrs. Losey are spending the next two weeks at Wisconsin lakes.

Ashton Woman's club picnic on Friday at Dugdale Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ormer have returned from a vacation spent at Wisconsin lakes.

At the Mathew McCulloch home of Lighthouse district guests to the number of 36 met on Sunday to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the James Hay family locating in the community. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hay have passed on but their children and grandchildren celebrated the end of the long journey from Scotland to Lighthouse community. The families of Mr. and Mrs. James Hay, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Clover and Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch with their children and grandchildren comprised the group.

Among those of the community attending the Huntley reunion on Sunday at Annie's Woods in DeKalb were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hardesty, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Huntley, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hardesty of Dixon and their families. Mrs. Cynthia Emmons of Dixon is the oldest member of the family.

Mrs. O. B. Tilton and daughter, and granddaughters of San Diego, Cal., will spend the summer months with relatives and friends of the community.

Pine Rock Flower Club meet on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Harry Acker for their annual picnic. The guests will visit many Rochelle gardens during the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spratt are the parents of a small daughter born on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Spratt's parents at Nachusa.

Miss Mary Ellen Beard Blackburn, college friend of Miss Vera Cain, is her guest this week. On Sunday with Miss Margaret Cain and Miss Merle Wilson Tilton they picnicked at the Pines.

Evangelical Sunday school picnics on Tuesday at Lowell Park.

The Cross reunion meets on July 10 at Dugdale's Grove. The Cross Hardesty, Tilton and Drummond families of the Grove are pioneer families coming to this community in the thirties, and from Coshocton county, Ohio. Each family will hold its annual reunion within the coming month.

Ashton and Pine Rock Woman's clubs picnicked at Dugdale's Grove on Friday at a joint picnic. The day was ideal for a picnic and the attendance good. Games in which the Ashton ladies carried off the honors were enjoyed and followed by a bountiful picnic supper with plenty and to spare for all.

Rev. Brewer, formerly of Ashton delivered the address at the Presbyterian church on Sunday and Rev. Hammit of DeKalb filled the M. E. pulpit.

Two cows were killed by lightning on the E. A. Clover farm during the severe electrical storm of Friday evening. Irvin Gocken is the tenant.

Miss Mable Stanley and niece of Dixon were guests at the home of Supervisors and Mrs. Perley Cross on Sunday.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

It could hardly be expected that Senator Dickinson of Iowa, in sounding the keynote speech at the republican national convention, would overlook anything that might bring discomfiture to the democrats.

That's what a keynote speech is supposed to do. If the opposition has a skeleton in the closet or a particularly raw nerve, bring 'em out and give 'em everything you've got.

That's what he was aiming at when he got around to the subject of the tariff in his speech. Even the most obscure alternate to a republican conventions knows that for past two years the democrats have had a holiday in the condemnation of his party for putting thru' the Hawley Smoot tariff bill. Now it so happens that when the democrats meet in Chicago on the 27th of this month, the two men prominently mentioned as keynoter and permanent chairman of the convention are Senator Barkley of Kentucky and Senator Walsh of Montana.

The Republican View
These two senators were among those who, when the revenue bill to balance the budget was before the senate, cast their votes to place tariffs on three or four commodities, and they did it over the protest of some of their more orthodox brethren, who still cling to the traditional democratic view that all tariffs are an abomination.

Dickinson referred to them in this manner:
"...It is an illustration of the avidity with which the democrats pursue high tariff rates.... For two years they have chanted their hymns of hate.... The guy wire which has supported the tariff bogey the democrats have so laboriously constructed has been broken. If gossip in the democratic quarters around Chicago means anything, there may be an escape from these charges—that is politically—for the democrats when they come to frame their platform this month.

Under democratic leadership a tariff bill of their own making was framed and passed at the present session of Congress. But when it journeyed up to the White House it met a swift sharp veto at the hands of President Hoover.

A Solution
Why not, the democrats are asking themselves, put into the party platform as the tariff plank this bill that we passed?

All democrats voted for it, including Senators Barkley and Walsh, who will be in the limelight at convention time. It looks like a splendid "out" on what might prove to be an embarrassing situation.

If such a move were made, a clear issue on the subject presumably would be drawn between the two parties. And at the same time discords would vanish.

This idea is reported to be favored by such prominent democrats as Harrison of Tennessee and Hull of Mississippi.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And the Lord said unto Moses whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book.—Exodus 32:33.

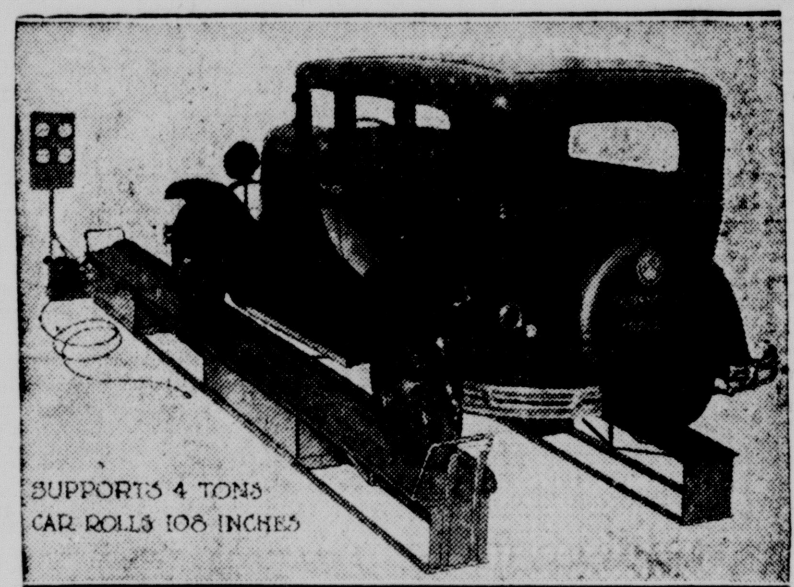

Man is, properly speaking, based upon hope. He has no other possession but hope; this world of his is emphatically the place of hope.—Carlyle.

LION JUMPS—DIES

Stockton, Cal.—An oil company had a lion in a hotel here for advertising purposes. The lion, playing around in a room, jumped to a window and fell against the window screen. The screen was unlocked and gave way under the weight of the beast. The lion fell three floors to the pavement below and lived only a short time.

No Question About It they are Milder!

YOU'RE RIGHT... there's one thing that stands out about Chesterfield. That is... they're Milder.

This means Chesterfields aren't harsh. It means they're not strong or heavy.

Early in the day or late at night you'll find that Chesterfields are always pleasing. They are mild and yet they satisfy.

What's more they taste better, too. That's it... milder and better taste. These are the two outstanding merits of Chesterfield.

Plus... a third important advantage. Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink... as pure as science can make them.

THEY Taste Better TOO

They Satisfy
